IS ANYBODY STILL LISTENING?

I certainly hope that those of you who are still with me understand the problems that occur and are willing to accept my apologies. I shan't offer an explanation, so please accept the fact that the delay was involuntary for the most part. I am settled at home now and busy working to make all that money I've been missing out on. Therefore, for the next few months things should go very smoothly. However, I am very seriously considering cutting down on my gaming activity, and LOMOKOME will be partly the first to go. I say this because I have done more poorly on this than I should have been allowed to. I have made incorrect adjudications, delayed publication, and other sordid errors. If there is anyone out there who feels his game should or should not be transferred, please write with details by the next deadline. I will take into consideration all comments.

The number of missed moves this issue I can attribute only to failure of the postal service, and lack of interest in the games. The lack of replacement players I attribute largely to myself. I beseech all GMs receiving this to make note that I desperately need replacement and standby players. Replacement players will be assigned first-come, first-serve to the largest positions working down. I need somebody, anybody, anything!

NEWS OF THE WORLD

LAWTON: PICKY, PICKY, PICKY!!!

OK: Fourscore and seven Days ago, our forefathers (three of 'em, anyway) sent moves to Lomokome by surface mail which explains a lot, but they expect a magazine oftener than once a quarter, unlike the DIPLOMAT which is lucky to come out once a quarter, conceived in futility and dedicated to the proposition of.

GARLAND:

HOUSE: I'm sorry, Bob, but I misplaced your PR. I'll put it in the next issue which should be out in August.

I had intended to list the capitals for each country this turn, but I misplaced my capital sheet. Would everyone please send in the position of his capital with the next move. Thanks.
